HARMONY DIRECTOR

This comprehensive education tool brings harmony training, rhythm training and ensemble timing together in one convenient educator resource. It enables music educators to clearly demonstrate for students how to tune individual notes within chords, so that entire chords may be tuned. The HD-200 Harmony Director helps musicians understand how their parts fit into the complete harmony of the ensemble.

From the President Sara Bidner

A Tribute to Pat Deaville . . .

We have recently completed another very successful LMEA State Music Conference held in Baton Rouge at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, November 15-19, 2012. Again, every detail was carefully planned and executed by our phenomenal Conference Coordinator, Pat Deaville, who has been responsible for making all the physical arrangements and putting the entire Conference program together for the past 25 YEARS! Though not evident to most of us, he has given enormous amounts of time and attention to making sure that the Conference runs as smoothly as possible, and he's accomplished this in his usual quiet but meticulous manner. Pat, we cannot thank you enough for your service and selfless dedication to LMEA all of these years!!!

Although Pat will continue as Editor of the Louisiana Musician, he is stepping down as Conference Coordinator. We are most fortunate that James Hearne, a Past President of LMEA, is taking over in this capacity. We know that James will also be superb in this position, but he has big shoes to fill!

On Being a Leader . . .

It is my good fortune to represent LMEA at regional and national meetings sponsored by the National Association for Music Education, and to benefit from the leadership sessions. The Executive Director of NAFME, Michael Butera, generally addresses one or two of the sessions, describing recent initiatives of the Association and providing direction in development of leadership skills.

One of the many books that Michael cites and recommends is entitled, You Don't Need a TITLE To Be a Leader: How Anyone, Anywhere, Can Make a Positive Difference, by Mark Sanborn. It is a 100-page quick read that is highly motivating and useful as a ready reference. It is also effective to use with students. As stated in Sanford's introduction, "The focus of this book is on 'little l' leadership. . . . It is about the small things each of us can do every day to positively influence our customers, our colleagues, our friends, and our communities" (p. xv).

As music teachers, we have a commitment to seeing that our students develop to their fullest potential, both in music excellence and as citizens and contributing members of society. The 21st Century learning skills that are stressed in education today—including collaboration, communication, creativity, and critical thinking—have always been integral to the study and performance of music, and are continually developed and nurtured through school music education programs. In essence, we are encouraging our students to become leaders through the development of these skills.

Being leaders also means practicing these same learning skills that we encourage and promote in our students. So, how are we doing on those four "Cs"? In order to thrive as a profession, are we communicating and collaborating with others—teachers, administrators, community members—to strengthen what we do, to create a broader impact through our programs, and to better serve our students and the profession in which we so strongly believe? Rather than complain and criticize, do we strive to be more proactive in solving problems (i.e., critical thinking) and creating new avenues for keeping alive and moving forward.

Sanborn states in his book, "Genuine leaders make things better not just for themselves but for others, whether or not their contribution results in financial reward or popular recognition" (p. 16). We have many genuine leaders in LMEA, and Pat Deaville takes a top spot in that group.

So, when we see a need or have a concern, whatever it may be, why not take that additional step to communicate with colleagues and collaborate on bringing an idea to fruition? Let's each do our part in 2013 to be true leaders, not only in our schools and communities, but also in our professional associations, to exemplify the 21st Century learning skills. Best of luck to you as you step beyond your comfort level to make a difference!

Sanborn, M. (2006). You don't need a title to be a leader: How anyone, anywhere, can make a positive difference. New York: Crown Publishing.

President-Elect Sharon McNamara-Home

Congratulations to all on a successful fall conference! We all appreciate the hard work and dedication of so many – the division chairs and others who presided over rehearsals, those who helped secure instruments and equipment, all who helped with the audition process, the many session presenters, and the guest ensembles from Nicholls. And of course, the high level of this year's All-State ensembles is a testament to the fine teaching that is going on across the state.

I must also take a minute to thank Pat Deaville for the amazing job he does scheduling, organizing, communicating, preparing programs, troubleshooting . . . and the list goes on and on . . . in preparation for the conference each year. For months, he spends hours working behind the scenes in his quiet, responsible, efficient, organized way. Thank you Pat! We sincerely appreciate you!

Food for thought – as I think about the difficulties many of my students face in their lives, I am reminded that many of them have no idea how to be successful because they have never experienced success. You all know the stories. So how do we encourage them and help them learn not to give up? What lessons are we teaching our students? Did you know:

- Charles Schultz, the cartoonist who created Peanuts, had every cartoon he submitted to his high school yearbook staff rejected.
- Oprah Winfrey, who endured a rough and often abusive childhood, was fired from her job as a television reporter because she was "unfit for TV."
- Thomas Edison's teachers told him he was "too stupid to learn anything." Later, he was fired from his first two jobs for not being productive enough. Even as an inventor, Edison made a thousand attempts to invent the light bulb before he finally succeeded.
- Walt Disney was fired by a newspaper editor because, "he lacked imagination and had no good ideas."
- Michael Jordan was cut from his high school basketball team. Reflecting on his career Jordan said, "I have missed more than 9,000 shots . . . lost almost 300 games . . . and on 26 occasions I have been entrusted to take the game winning shot, and I missed. I have failed over and over and over again in my life. And that is why I succeed."

In music, we have the unique opportunity to "teach" success both individually and as an ensemble! Help your students find their individual strengths and talents. Help them learn that failure is not an end, it is a beginning! These are things that cannot be tested, but they're the very things that touch the soul of students and bring them back years later to say thank you!

If I can be of help, please don't hesitate to contact me at sharon.mcnamara-home@stpsb.org.

From the Editor's Desk

Pat Deaville

is Director of Curriculum and Instruction
Calcasieu Parish Schools

I realize that many public educators feel under siege. At times it appears as if the population we serve and the elected officials who regulate us have virtually turned their backs on us. I hear from so many discouraged and frustrated colleagues.

I've been in the business of serving the public for over 40 years. I've seen times of great support. I've seen times with little support.

Over time, my faith in educators across the state has grown rather than diminished. This is particularly true in the past few years. While it may appear that we have become the "whipping boy," nothing ever stays the same. The pendulum will continue to swing.

Education in America needs to improve. But in reality, much of what troubles the education system has nothing to do with educators. I'm not pointing fingers. I'm just saying that America needs to improve. Our educational system will always be a reflection of the society we live in.

Testing and evaluation schemes do not improve educational performance. People improve educational performance. We are difference makers. But we are not the only difference makers. How much difference educators make will always be impacted by how much society allows us to.

So what is it that I have to say that will make you feel better? Where is the hope? What are we to do?

In times of discontent and crisis, I love to draw on lessons of history and the indomitable American spirit. If you have the patience to read what follows, you will find the inspiration you desire.

December of 1776 was a decisive moment in American history. General Washington's battered and repeatedly defeated Army was in full retreat in the midst the worst winter of the century.

Closing in fast on the starving and ragtag, amateur American Army was a well-fed, veteran British Army, augmented by the best mercenary troops of Europe (Hessians).

Only the Delaware River separated the two armies on Christmas Eve 1776. The British expected to cross the river shortly after Christmas and destroy what was left of Washington's troops.

Once done, the British would march leisurely into the American capitol of Philadelphia. The short-lived revolution would be just another failed attempt by another colony to escape the dominance of the British Empire.

What was left of Washington's Army was rapidly deserting and running away. There just didn't seem to be much fight left in them.

The American populace cheered the American soldiers in the summer as the volunteers marched through their towns heading towards New York to face the British.

Now in the bitter winter cold, the populace shuttered their doors, refused food, and berated the patriots as they retreated through the towns. The American Army slept without tents in the mud and snow...rags for shoes...empty stomachs.

Likewise, the Continental Congress had shamefully abandoned the army. They debated constantly over the right course of action. But in the end, took no meaningful action. For the American Army it meant "no pay...no food...no ammunition...nothing." Then the Continental Congress abandoned Philadelphia.

On December 23rd of 1776, Thomas Paine published the first article in his collection The American Crisis.* I am provided only a few brief excerpts from his lengthy essay. But the parts I have chosen carry an eloquence, meaning, and inspiration that can touch your life in these modern troubled times.

Before reading, you should be reminded two days after reading this essay Washington turned what was left of his Army around and crossed the Delaware in the freezing dead of night. Ignoring the advice of his own officers, withstanding the grumbings of his best soldiers, and against all odds; his ragtag collection of soldiers surprised and defeated the Hessian mercenaries in Trenton.

Had Washington failed that cold December night, the revolution would have been over. Instead, this single improbable victory gave an infant nation "hope"... gave its Army "faith"...and gave the world "democracy."

"THESE are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands by it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly: it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods."

"I have as little superstition in me as any man living, but my secret opinion has ever been, and still is, that God Almighty will not give up a people to military destruction, or leave them unsupportedly to perish, who have so earnestly and so repeatedly sought to avoid the calamities of war, by every decent method which wisdom could invent. Neither have I so much of the infidel in me, as to suppose that He has relinquished the government of the world, and given us up to the care of devils".

'Tis surprising to see how rapidly a panic will sometimes run through a country. The whole English army, after ravaging the kingdom of France, was driven back like men petrified with fear; and this brave exploit was performed by a few broken forces collected and headed by a woman, Joan of Arc. Would that heaven might inspire some Jersey maid to spirit up her countrymen, and save her fair fellow sufferers from ravage and ravishment! Yet panics, in some cases, have their uses; they produce as much good as hurt. Their duration is always short; the mind soon grows through them, and acquires a firmer habit than before. But their peculiar advantage is, that they are the touchstones of sincerity and hypocrisy, and bring things and men to light, which might otherwise have lain forever undiscovered. In fact, they have the same effect on secret traitors, which an imaginary apparition would have upon a private murderer. They sift out the hidden thoughts of man, and hold them up in public to the world.

I thank God, that I fear not. I see no real cause for fear. I know our situation well, and can see the way out of it. It is great credit to us, that, with a handful of men, we sustained an orderly retreat for near an hundred miles, brought off our ammunition, all our field pieces, the greatest part of our stores, and had four rivers to pass. None can say that our retreat was precipitate, for we were near three weeks in performing it, that the country might have time to come in. Twice we marched back to meet the enemy, and remained out till dark. The sign of fear was not seen in our camp, and had not some of the cowardly and disaffected inhabitants spread false alarms through the country, the Jerseys had never been ravaged.

By perseverance and fortitude we have the prospect of a glorious issue; by cowardice and submission, the sad choice of a variety of evils — a ravaged country — a depopulated city — habitations without safety, and slavery without hope — our homes turned into barracks and bawdy-houses for Hessians, and a future race to provide for, whose fathers we shall doubt of. Look on this picture and weep over it! and if there yet remains one thoughtless wretch who believes it not, let him suffer it unlamented."

Note:

**The American Crisis is a collection of articles written by Thomas Paine during the American Revolutionary War. In 1776 Paine wrote Common Sense, an extremely popular and successful pamphlet arguing for Independence from England. The articles written in essay form constitute Paine's ongoing support for an independent and self-governing America through the many severe crises of the Revolutionary War. General Washington found the first essay so inspiring; he ordered that it be read to the troops at Valley Forge.*

Jazz Division Chairman Lee Hicks

Happy New Year! I hope everyone had a restful holiday and a positive beginning to the second semester, which is a month or so under way now. I'd like to begin by thanking all of the directors who helped with All State Jazz auditions and the All State Jazz rehearsals and performance at the conference. Special thanks to Johnny Walker and Pineville High School for all of their help the auditions and to B.J. McGibney, Jason Venable, and Donny Alexander for all of their assistance throughout the auditions and conference. I must also thank Andy Pizzo, the audition judges, and the Louisiana Association for Jazz Education for all of their assistance and commitment to promoting jazz education in our state. Without the assistance of all of these people and many others, it would be very difficult to keep everything organized and running smoothly throughout those events. So, once again, THANK YOU!

The second semester is full of activities that will keep us all VERY busy, but let's take some time to consider how fortunate we are to teach what we love most, MUSIC! During this busy time of year we should keep a few important things in mind. As we share our love for music, we are developing future generations of amateur and professional musicians, educating present and future concert audience members and supporters of the arts, and possibly setting the foundation and example for future music educators. This unspoken responsibility many times gets lost as we rehearse our ensembles in preparation for festivals, concerts, parades, and the many other performances we do throughout the year. That being said, good luck with all of your performances and commitments throughout the rest of the school year and enjoy yourself and you continue to share your love of MUSIC.

There are several Jazz performances and festivals coming up this semester that might interest and benefit you and your students. First, on Thursday, February 21 the Fontainebleau High School Crimson Band Booster Club will be presenting the World Famous Glenn Miller Orchestra at 7:30pm at Church of the King in Mandeville, LA. The Glenn Miller Orchestra is continually touring the world, performing concert of the great bandleaders music and staying authentic to the Glenn Miller tradition. For more information on the current Glenn Miller Orchestra please visit their website at glennmillerorchestra.com. If you are interested in group tickets for your students please get in touch with me and we can work something out for your group, even possibly as a fundraiser for your group as well. Individual tickets are available through the band website at www.fhscrimsonband.com.

The University of Louisiana at Lafayette will be hosting clinics and a performance with Gordon Goodwin on March 2, 2013. Gordon Goodwin is one of the premier contemporary jazz/big band composers of our time leading the Gordon Goodwin Big Phat Band with some of the world's best musicians. For more information about Gordon Goodwin please visit the Gordon Goodwin Big Phat Band website at www.bigphatband.com. If you are interested in attending the concerts or clinic get in touch with Dr. Bill Hochkeppel, director of bands at ULL by email hochkeppel@louisiana.edu.

SPRING JAZZ FESTIVALS:

I would encourage ALL directors to consider taking your group, no matter how young or how much experience they have, to perform at one of the festivals listed below. Many of these festivals offer clinics with the adjudicators following a group's performance.

If you are uncomfortable having your group perform, it might still be a good idea to take your students to sit in the audience for some school performances and especially to hear the guest artist clinics and performances.

The first festival, The Northwestern Louisiana University/ Louisiana Association for Jazz Education State Jazz Ensemble Festival will take place at Northwestern University on Saturday, March 2. This year's guest artist in the incomparable Ingrid Jensen, check out her website at www.ingridjensen.com. Information about registering for the festival can be found on the L.A.J.E. website at www.lajelouisiana.org. This festival is open to high school, junior high, community college, and university big bands and combos. Each ensemble will receive a clinic with one of the festival adjudicators.

The Loyola University Jazz Ensemble Festival will be held on Friday, March 7 and Saturday, March 8 at Loyola University in New Orleans. This year's guest artists will be Brian Blade and Fellowship. Brian Blade is THE world's premier jazz drummer having performed and recorded with some of the greatest jazz musicians in the world, including, Josh Redman, Chick Corea, Wayne Shorter, Nora Jones, Bob Dylan, Herbie Hancock, and numerous others. In my personal opinion Brian is one of the most musical drummers in the world, making the drums sing while displaying his rhythmic artistry. Brian Blade's "Fellowship" band includes some of the worlds most in demand musicians including Jon Coward on piano and several other world-class jazz musicians. For more information about Brian check out his website at www.brianblade.com. This festival is open to high school, junior high, and community college ensembles, and each ensemble will receive a clinic with one of the festival adjudicators.

The McNeese State University Jazz Festival will, once again, be held in conjunction with the Contraband Days Festival in Lake Charles on Saturday, May 4, 2013. This year's guest artist for the festival will be the one and only Wycliffe Gordon, master of the trombone and sousaphone. Wycliffe is an incredible musician that always lights up a room and energizes a performance. Go to www.wycliffegordon.com for more information about Wycliffe Gordon. This will be another great experience for any and all students in attendance. This festival is open to high school, junior high, community college, and university big bands and combos. Each ensemble will receive a clinic with one of the festival adjudicators.

As you can see, the LMEA Jazz Division and the Louisiana Association for Jazz Education have been working together to help develop and encourage the jazz in our schools. Please feel free to contact the LAJE board or myself at any time for anything questions you might have with your jazz program. I would also encourage all band directors to consider joining LAJE and become an active member. The more we can help each other, the better ALL of our programs will be. The bottom line is giving ALL of our students a well-rounded music education to help prepare them as they progress from beginning band, to middle school and junior high, to high school, college, and beyond. Even if a student does not plan to go into music as a profession, we can make a difference in music by developing future supporters of music and the arts.

Red Stick Chapter AOSA Sherry Barron

As we sing in the new year, our minds are always flooded with thoughts of change. We want to change the way in which we keep ourselves organized, we want to change our weight or appearance, as well as our finances and we also want to change the methods in which we impact others around us. We resolve to be better! This stream of thought often manifests itself in our teaching profession. Even the state desires change in our assessment, the formatting of lessons, and the methods in which we teach them. "Change" has been the grand roller coaster ride for years now! Not all change is bad and sometimes is necessary; but one thing is certain for sure when it comes right down to kids and learning music! By nature, they are still creative little beings who love to explore, experiment, and are eager to try new things! The sense of touch, sight, listening, taste, and smell are never-ending factors in their world when it comes to laying a strong foundation on which to build! No matter what age the student, the 5 senses should not be neglected when teaching. Sure, we should teach appropriately considering age, style, and material; but DON'T CHANGE the basic yet individual learning styles (kinesthetic, auditory, and visual). My challenge to you, especially now with Compass assessment in place, is to remember that kids are imaginative, creative, and love "hands on!" Give them a "taste" of something new. Give them opportunities to "see" and "hear" new music or music styles. Let them explore by finding creative ways for kinesthetic - hands on experiences by "touching" manipulatives or instruments. Lastly, remember that they can "smell" bad teaching or a teacher who is only interested in doing a job! Show your students you care for them and that you "know your stuff!" Engage, but don't try to change the natural! Success is apparent when the natural is developed and fully initiated!

The Red Stick Chapter of Orff offers workshops throughout the year. We are dedicated to helping you be better at engaging the learner and offering ways to make your lessons "come alive" using the 5 senses! Visit www.redstickorff.com for more information.

LAKE President Sheila Rae Manning

I am happy to serve you as LAKE President. My name is Sheila Rae Manning and I have taught classroom elementary music/Choir and Junior High Choir for 28 years in Beauregard Parish. I am always looking for opportunities to better my teaching and give the best musical experiences to my students through sharing of ideas and attending workshops and conferences.

LAKE sponsored Dr. Susan Brumfield as our LMEA clinician in November. Her sessions were "First, We Sing! Songs and Games for the Music Classroom," "Hot Peas and Barley-O: Children's Songs and Games from Scotland," and "Over the Garden Wall: Children's Songs and Games from England." The sessions were awesome! So many ideas both new and revisited gave each teacher the renewed enthusiasm to get back into the classroom and use the material to better prepare and write lesson plans with SLT's that address a positive learning experience in music while at the same time is enjoyable and memorable for our children.

The LAKE General membership meeting was held on Friday, November 16th at noon. It was a short meeting to elect officers and to get input on future workshops. Our 2012 - 2013 slate of officers is as follows: Sheila Rae Manning, President; Casey Doucet, President-Elect; Annette Larsen, Past-President; Cathy Comish, Vice President; Peggy Fletcher, Secretary; Michele White, Treasurer; Hailey Coburn, Member-At-Large. Thank you to Ann Eisen for continuing to create our Newsletter.

Our new winter workshop for LAKE is scheduled for January 12, 2013 at Lake Charles Charter Academy. The workshop will address ways to prepare your choirs for the Choral Festival.

The 2013 OAKE National Conference will be held in Hartford, Connecticut, March 21-23, with the choirs beginning rehearsals March 22. Remember to check the OAKE website for comments from the directors for your students who were chosen. I hope many of you are planning to attend the Conference. It is well worth it.

Please visit the LAKE website at www.lakeducators.com. The LAKE board will continue to make improvements to the website and keep any upcoming events and/or calendars posted.

I am happy to serve you as LAKE President. The board and I would like to reach out to any former and interested music teachers to become a member of LAKE by joining OAKE. We, as music teachers, need to join together and become involved - not only in our classrooms but in our profession - to keep music alive in our schools. Our children deserve the best we can give.

LAJE President Andy Pizzo

I hope everyone is off to a fantastic start for the second semester of the 2012-2013 school year. As we prepare for festival season, jazz festivals will be kicking up all over the state and featuring some great names in the realm of jazz as guest artists to these festivals. Here are the jazz festivals for you to consider for this semester:

- Sat. Mar. 2 = LAJE State Jazz Fest at Northwestern State University with Ingrid Jensen, trumpet; contact is Galindo Rodriguez
- Sat. Mar. 2 = ULL Jazz Invitational at UL Lafayette with Gordin Goodwin, tenor sax and piano; contact is Bill Hochkeppel
- Fri. Mar. 8 and Sat. Mar. 9 = Loyola Jazz Fest at Loyola University with the Brian Blade Fellowship, rhythm section; contact is John Mahoney
- Sat. May 4 = The Banners Jazz Fest at McNeese State University with Wycliffe Gordon, trombone; contact is Patrick Sheng

Again, jazz education is a valuable part of the overall music education experience of music students, especially our Louisiana music students. Let's help support these festivals and consider participating in at least one. They are "friendly", "affordable", and "educational". They welcome those with established as well as newly established jazz programs. I know my students greatly benefit from the knowledge and experience they gain from their participation in these events. Feel free to refer to our LAJE website for information on these events, as well as our membership form. Check us out at www.lajemusic.com.

Elementary Division Chairman Michele White

2012 Annual Conference Was Great; 2013 Conference Will Be Even Better!

"A mind once stretched by a new idea never regains its original dimensions." – Oliver Wendall Holmes

The 2012 Annual Louisiana Music Educators Conference was a place for lots of mind-stretching because of the wealth of new ideas offered by the various clinicians who either volunteered their time and talents or those who were sponsored by LMEA, LAKE, or Red Stick-Orff.

As usual, I circulated an evaluation form to the teachers in attendance at the elementary division business meeting on Saturday, November 19, at 11:50 am. The majority of this article will include most of the evaluations/suggestions/critiques that were submitted by these educators.

Even though it is only January, please begin making plans to attend the 2013 annual conference November 21-25 in Baton Rouge. Consider putting attendance at the conference on your professional growth plan – many teachers said they did this, and it made it much easier for them to be given permission to attend.

Evaluations were overwhelmingly favorable for the clinicians brought in by LMEA, Dr. Andy Paney; LAKE, Dr. Susan Brumfield; and Red Stick-ORFF, Dr. Paige Rose. Also, teachers appreciated the quality of all the clinicians and the fact that sessions were consecutive.

The following is a representative list of suggestions teachers wrote on their evaluation forms: Make and share sessions, Multicultural music sessions, Rhythm instrumental classes, Music advocacy for elementary music teachers,

Visits to various schools close to the conference, More information about pedagogy, More information about working with children's choirs, Perhaps a Q and A on how to handle some individual concerns we have at our schools with student and administrative challenges, Please bring Ruth Dwyer, Susan Brumfield, Sandy Knudson, Jill Trinka, Dania Gagne to future conferences, Keyboard or music theory workshop, Possible alternate venue for Saturday sessions: BR Center for Visual and Performing Arts on Acadian Thruway; More things for elementary music in exhibit area, Record sessions for future reference: audio or video; post links on LMEAmusic.org, Training in music common core assessments and all the new changes to include COMPASS and SLTs, Sessions to deal with COMPASS specifics, i.e. grouping, student interaction, student-led activities; Folk-dance social on "social" night.

In the critiques section, these items were listed: More presenters that meet needs of COMPASS, i.e. small group and higher order thinking questions; Bring in a clinician who spans all music disciplines, Hard to hear presenters – they should be miked, Someone who can teach activities that are COMPASS-based, What happened to the lunches that attendees usually are able to purchase?, It's hard to convince principals/administrators to let teachers attend the annual State conference – what can LMEA do to help?

The good news is that – except for the requests for more COMPASS and SLT related sessions – all the other suggestions have been met during the last ten years! In fact, most of them were met THIS year! It is important that music educators support the conferences and make plans to attend every year. The wealth of material that has been presented in Louisiana since 2002 is incredible – and it is on a par with any other state conference. While our conference is smaller than some other states, it is an excellent place for teachers to congregate and learn. And, it is true that "a mind once stretched by a new idea never regains its original dimensions." Mine has been stretched each year with every session I attend.

Make your new year's resolution to participate in the 2013 Louisiana Music Educators Annual Conference, November 21-25. Claim a blessed year!

District III Robin Daigle

As we begin a new season, I would like to personally express my wishes for everyone to have a happy and successful new year. A big congratulations goes out to Westgate High School band director Billy Hochkeppel for being selected as one of the recipients of the LMEA Outstanding Young Educators Award. Billy also represented District III in a panel discussion presented to future music educators at convention. Thanks to all who attended our state conference this past November!!! It was great to visit with many of you as we share ideas of continued development in our profession. Your participation is always crucial in making improvements every year. In other news, the District III high school honor choir was held at ULL under the direction of William Plummer, director of choral activities at ULL. The middle and elementary honor choir clinicians were Andrew Minear from Orlando, FL and Susan Brumfield from Texas. By the time you read this issue, our middle school honor band groups will have performed. Clinicians for middle school honor band are William Owens, Carolyn Herrington, and Neil Simon. Our district is very excited about the commissioned piece by William Owens entitled "Spit-Fire." The work focuses on the legacy of the Tuskegee Airmen. High school honor band clinicians are Fred Allen, David Campo and Andrew Hunter. Thanks goes out to all directors for their help in ensuring the District III honor bands and choir clinics ran smoothly.

Please mark your calendars with the following upcoming events:

District VI Guy C. Wood

Let me wish you a belated Happy New Year! I hope the first semester of the 2012-13 School Year was successful for you and your students and I hope that the rest of the year will be also. January saw the performances of several of our Honor Groups!

On January 20, 2013, the District VI Band Directors Association's three Honor Bands performed at Belle Chasse High School. All three groups gave fantastic performances! The Elementary Honor Band, chaired by Katie Codina, was conducted this year by the District VI Elementary Band Director of the Year, Keith Hart, from KIPP Believe School. The Jr. High Honor Band, chaired by Katie Antis and Sherry Meyer, was conducted by B.J. McCarter from Archbishop Rummel High School – the District VI Sr. High Band Director of the Year. The Senior High Honor Band, chaired by Alonzo Bowens, was conducted by Roy King from Louisiana State University. All three clinicians deserve the accolades they received at the concert as well as many thanks from our District. Mention should also be made of Mike Orkus, who is again serving as District VI Band Directors Association President.

Still on tap for March 3 is the District VI Jazz Band Concert at the University of New Orleans. The Jr. High Honor Jazz Ensemble is being chaired by Mike Genevay and will be conducted by Claire Conti. The Sr. High Honor Jazz Ensemble, also chaired by Mike Genevay, will be conducted by Erik Morales. I know both clinicians and groups will present terrific performances!

The District VI Solo and Ensemble Festival – sorry, Assessment – will be held at various sites during the entire month of February (in order to maneuver around Mardi Gras Parades). Chairman is Mike Urbazewski at Holy Cross. Finally, the District VI Large Ensemble Festival will be held on March 27 and 28, 2013, at the University of New Orleans. Randy Weaver is again chairman and we are very grateful for his time and effort. Large Ensemble is not an easy event to chair!

On the Vocal side of our district, things are running smoothly as usual under the leadership of Kathryn Claverie. The District VI Vocal Directors will present their Honor Chorus weekend on March 1-3 at the First Baptist Church in New Orleans. Our Youth Honor Choir is chaired by Melissa Brocato and conducted by Brian Kittredge. The Senior High Honor Choir is chaired by Cheryl Dupont and conducted by Gary Packwood. I know both groups will give amazing performances due to the outstanding clinicians and chairs involved – not to mention some fantastic Honor Choir students!

The Vocal Solo Ensemble Assessment is scheduled for February 6. Chairman is Louise LaBruyere, who has served the district in this capacity for many years and is appreciated much more than she realizes. I can say the same thing about Kathryn Claverie, who, besides being our District Choral President, will be chairing the Vocal Large Ensemble Assessment this year at the University of New Orleans on March 21 and 23.

I hope that all your goals and objectives for this school year will be met by the time Commencement of the Class of 2013 rolls around. If you ever need to reach me for anything, contact me at gwood68@aol.com.

District VIII Carol Lupton

It is hard to believe that the first semester has come to an end and the second semester is already here. January, and the spring semester, brings with it opportunities for your students to perform with ensembles outside their regular school setting. Getting your students involved with these varies ensembles will bring a perspective and appreciation for how music has enriched their lives.

The District Solo and Ensemble Assessment is another opportunity for your students to perform. The first Solo and Ensemble Assessment is scheduled for February 23rd at Captain Shreve High School. Vocal, Band, and Orchestral students may enter this festival.

Large Ensemble Assessments also begin at the end of February, some of you may already know what you are planning on programming. As soon as you know what pieces your groups will be performing, take the time to secure your adjudicator scores. Taking care of that one little detail ahead of time will help alleviate some last minute stress.

I would also like to take a few minute to thank the many directors who continually volunteer to host festivals and tryouts for the students of District VIII. There is no way to adequately express my appreciation for all you do by hosting events.

If you have any concerns, questions, or if I can help you with anything, please do not hesitate to call. Best wishes to you and your students for a successful second semester.

District IX Neal Naquin

Teaching is a special calling. I hope you are already aware of this fact. If you find yourself getting into a little funk because you are having one of those tough days or weeks or months etc., give yourself a boost and remind yourself of the positives. One thing I have done over the years is keep a file with all the nice notes and cards I have received (or print outs of email). When I need a little pick me up, I go back and read a couple of them. Another good thing to do is call a colleague and commiserate. I find that goes on a lot before and after district meetings or at the state convention. I encourage the new directors to come to as many district and state events as possible. Talk to the veteran teachers.

As we begin to prepare for district festival and spring concerts, be sure to do the little things which help things to run smoothly. Check the district website (district9.info) and mark the upcoming deadlines on your calendar. Jot down reminders like order judges scores or contact the bus driver. Make an outline of what you need to get done this semester and put it on the calendar. I find my stress level goes down the more I put my ideas and plans on paper.

If I can be of help, do not hesitate to contact me. My email is neal.naquin@stpsb.org and my office number is 985-893-6594. Good luck and have a successful spring semester.
